Kerala by air, which was worth ₹2 crore per day, has tapered to 30%. Bananas are sourced from Tamil Nadu too.

Traders feel that air freight operators may slowly lose ground, since marine logistic operators like Maersk and Evergreen Marine have stepped in with tempting sea shipment offers. More reefer containers have been roped in.

Besides the high air cargo costs, the recent shift in Central policy and the new shipment protocol triggered the shift. "Earlier pineapple could be exported only as air cargo," says AK Shereif, CEO, Vegetable and Fruit Promotion Council Keralam (VFPCK).

Earlier, VFPCK had inked an MoA (memorandum of association) with NRCB (National Research Centre for Banana), Thiruchi (TN) to export nentran variety bananas to Europe to cater to ethnic Indian population.

India, currently, exports about ₹400-crore worth bananas to West Asian countries. "The country has a fair chance of grabbing atleast one-fifth share of the ₹ 15,000 crore global banana trade, if the supply chain is optimized," says Dr S Uma, Director, NRCB - Thiruchi. "As world's largest producer of bananas, with over 10 native breeds like nendran, poovan, ney poovan, red banana and rasthalli," India's huge banana export potential is yet to be realised," she says.
